Milchbauer is an fun farm simulation game. You will be responsible for a dairy farm and you will try to keep the farm going by clever farming, buying and selling, controlling the milk production, buying and selling and much more. Milchbauer is based on real scenarios, data and statistics. You can edit the data and you can run through various scenarios like the consequences of changing milk prices or the consequences of increasing the efficiency of your plants or increasing the efficiency of your milking machines or managing your feeding plans. The goal of the game is to keep the farm running for over 20 years. For every cow there are different prices for the milk produced. The cows always start the game with a specific amount of milk. The milk they produce depends on the current weather, the pasture and the feeding. The cow will produce milk if there is enough room on the pasture and the fodder is sufficient. You are competing with the markets and you have to decide whether you should sell your milk or use it to produce milk. The capacity and effectiveness of your machines is limited. With the help of modern farming technology you will have to develop the farm. Each machine has a limit. This limit will be determined by the developer. You can improve your pastures and your buildings, buy new animals, buy and sell machines and buildings. My name is Felix. I am a farmer - or milchbauer. I will manage and improve your dairy farm. The game will be developed and finished with great attention to detail, it will be both realistic and humorous. It will be easy to handle and feel at home. It will be a great game for players of all ages. But it's first release is targeted for children. What am I planning to add to this game? - More animals and buildings (milk, cattle, cheese, organic beef) - various farming topics like fertilization, pesticides, etc. - ranking - level of challenges (e.g. without selling milk) - random events - short cuts (e.g. buildings that are not needed for the game) - the game will be available on PCs, tablets, and smartphones. It will use a touch interface. How much time does it take to create each game and how long will the game take to develop? Before I can answer this question, you have to have an idea about how much time a game takes to create. It depends on

In this work, we designed and synthesized hybrid nanoflowers based on a novel strategy that YAP (YAP: YO-PRO-1) can cross-link with monomers via host-guest interactions to form new fluorescence-emitting hybrid. The resulting monomer YAP-based hybrid nanoflowers were found to exhibit excellent stability, high fluorescence property and sensitive fluorescence response to H_2O_2 and F^-.
